If you have been a customer of various Thrifty Oil Company service stations during the past three months, you may get back some of overcharge they nicked you for.

The firm has "voluntarily agreed to rollback and refund" more than $170,000 overcharged by incorrectly computing ceiling prices. The Internal Revenue Service caught the firm overcharging .5 cents to 3.2 cents a gallon. The agreement to cut prices below the ceiling until $170,000 has been returned to purchasers was not hard to come by under the gentle persuasion of the IRS.

Three of the 172 Thrifty Stations operated by the Downey, Calif. firm are at Imperial and Palm in Lemon Grove, Bancroft and Campo in Spring Valley, and on Imperial in Encanto.

The above is an introduction to the bigger gasoline ripoff —the utter disregard Big Oil has shown in bilking the American public. BO's complicity has been so contrived and defiant that it almost prevents exposition.

Because you are paying 55-60 cents a gallon for gasoline, major oil firms have racked up the greatest profits in oil history. Oil firms, already enjoying government-given benefits, didn't need to milk the public to make a respectable profit. Depletion allowances, tax write-off for foreign oil and other advantages not available to other segments of business have been achieved by the oil lobby. The write-off comes out of the taxpayers pocket! This profit is in addition to ridiculously high gasoline costs.

You be the judge!

Exxon Corp. First three months of '74. Profits up 39 percent. Up $200 million to $705 million profit.

Texaco. First three quarters. Profits up 123 percent. Up $325 million to $589.4 profit.

Occidental Petroleum. First three months. Profits up 817 percent. Up $59 million.

Skelly Oil. 97 percent increase.

Gulf Oil. 76 percent increase.

Standard Oil. 81 percent.

It seems strange that no Federal anti-trust action has been taken against an industry that together raised prices with the precision of a chorus line.

It seems strange that such huge profits have not triggered the Federal government into rescinding tax breaks that are superior to those given to other industries.

It seems strange that a comparatively small oil firm (Thrifty) is forced to refund to the public the amount it overcharged while the biggies appear to be going free.

Energy chief John C. Sawhill has admitted that big U.S. fuel distributors "may have" overcharged customers by more than $100 million, but there seems to to be no hard, firm determination to demand refunds from the Big Boys.

Sawhill's organization (Federal Energy Office) is presently involved with the propane industry. His investigators are said to have discovered "propane prices have been driven up by illegal broker activity . . . by large markups . . . made without any product ever changing hands."

But the oil industry has shown disdain for the public opinion through a lobby as potent as that of the milk lobby (more about this later). It seems that little, if any, sanctions will be taken against Big Oil unless the public forces the issue.

It has been insisted in this column from time to time, that oil is a natural resource belonging to the people. The people ought to have a say in how much profit oil tycoons may make from the people's property.

No one yet has denied that problems in oil-rich countries of the middle east and South America have been fomented by greedy oil firms seeking to line the pockets of oil-producing families. National interest demands Federal control of oil producers.

And let's not forget those small-business people — service station operators — who have been forced out of business by lack of profit during the period when Big Oil was pocketing unprecedented profits.

Soon, oil firms will launch a huge campaign telling you how much they contribute to the upkeep of this democracy. If honestly presented, it would be in the form of a huge middle finger, well oiled, pointed skyward.

Sheriff's Station Drops 'After Hours' Service

A program of keeping the station open from six to ten o'clock, Monday through Friday was given a two-months trial run—and it was considered effective by Lt. Charles K. Wigginton, station commander pro-tem.

Wigginton said the evening "after hours" shift had been manned by Sheriff's Reserves but these men are needed in the field helping deputies as summer activities create the need.

The additional service to the community was useful, Wigginton said. "Statistics were gathered for recommendation on whether to extend office hours permanently with paid staff. The volunteer reserves have done a commendable job in gathering this information. After evaluating the information and it indicated that additional staffing is warranted, we will make recommendations next year," he said.

Joyce is Symbol Of Goodwill Week

". . . Handicapped people DO have something to contribute to society; they can learn to use what they have left." These are strong words of conviction resulting from the personal experiences of a disabled woman named Joyce, who made her statement in connection with the beginning of Goodwill Week, May 5th through 11th.

Her story is one of triumph over multiple disasters beginning at age six when she was stricken with rheumatic fever and had to learn to walk again.

While in high school, brain damage resulting from an automobile accident left Joyce with speech and equilibrium impairments. Recovered, she

30,000 See O.T.D. Parade

"It was a beautiful day for a parade—and it was a wonderful parade," said a young lady with a couple of youngsters in tow as Lemon Grove's 11th annual Old Time Days Parade began to disband.

"It was the best parade we ever had and more people saw it than ever before," said Dell Lake, president of the L. G. Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the event was held. It was estimated that 30,000 persons viewed the parade.

There were about 70 units in the parade which lasted for over an hour. It disbanded at Broadway and Washington, near St. John of the Cross Catholic church where the Old Time Days Carnival was in full swing.

The parade had a proper touch of nostalgia—the theme being "Memories of Yesteryear" — with former baseball greats riding with Sportscaster Al Couppee who was parade marshal.

His "court" of baseball notables was comprised of Al Schuss, who was the "Voice of the Padres" for 25 years; Bob Kerrigan, who pitched the pennant winning game for the San Diego Padres in 1954, and Ed Runge, the American League umpire who regularly worked the World Series games. Suzanne Pickerd, Miss Lemon Grove, was Queen of the Day and added her somewhat beauty to the Marshal's group.

REACT Helps

The parade went smoothly. One reason for this was Southwestern REACT, a group of citizens who give service where citizens two-way radio is needed. They promised seven volunteers. 17 showed up. They furnished a solid line of communication the entire length of the parade. REACT is Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team.

Only one untoward incident occurred. A horse slipped and fell with its young girl rider. It appeared from a distance that the animal had fallen on her, but luckily it didn't and she was uninjured. Lemon Grove Firemen posted nearby rushed to her assistance. She remounted her horse and proudly finished the parade.

The Lemon Grove "Lemon Drops", a group of local businessmen who dress as feminine ballet dancers, were popular with parade watchers, partly because they handed out candy lemon drops along the parade route.

Lake commended parade chairman Don McCray, and Helen Myers, chamber secretary for the long, hard work they contributed to make the event a success.

Workers Needed

"Few people realize how much work there is to coordinate a parade," Lake said. "These two workers worked many weeks organizing it. The Chamber owes them, and others who helped, a debt of gratitude."

Funds for the parade comes from merchants who tax themselves for each employee they have, and from the carnival. This year the carnival produced about $1,000 which will be used for next year's parade and other community events, Lake said. The income was $300 more than last year.

Lake also urged persons interested in serving on the parade committee to get in touch with him or the chamber office. His numbers are 469-5201 and 469-8280. The Chamber is 469-9621.

A meeting for the 1975 parade is scheduled fo May 10th at 7:30 at the chamber office. It is probable that the same weekend next year will be chosen for the 1975 event.

Vista La Mesa Annex 'Unlikely'

Six months ago it looked as if it would be a big advantage to annex to La Mesa — then the enthusiasm cooled.

The area north and west of Lemon Grove, known as Vista La Mesa, hot to join the City of La Mesa six month ago, apparently has decided to "do nothing."

The area is about 420 acres and is connected to Lemon Grove geographically. The southern part is connected politically by way of the Lemon Grove Fire District; the L.G. School District and the L.G. Sanitation District. It would probably be cut from the Fire District under annexation.

Paul Haider, of 7216 Pearson st., a former employee of the Department of Motor Vehicles, is one of the proponents. He said that it is not likely that signatures could now be obtained. He said the (La Mesa City) Council moved too slowly and the matter has now chilled.

It is estimated that La Mesa's tax income from the annexed area would be $245,500 but it would cost La Mesa $234,500 to provide police, street and fire services.

It was said that the cost to individual taxpayers would be about the same although one La Mesa City councilman said the annexation would increase the City's 90-cent tax rate.

Had one fourth of the voters signed a petition to annex, the issue would have been on the November ballot.

Bulletin Editor, Tommy Thomas Retires

Tommy Thomas, editor of the Spring Valley Bulletin, is retiring after almost twenty years in the newspaper profession. Thomas worked as a reporter and photographer, before becoming an editor for the Bulletin.

As well as working for the newspaper, Thomas has been active in community affairs in Spring Valley. He has served as a counselor for the Boy Scouts in both music and journalism.

From 1960-61 he served as president of the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce and has been a member of the Masons for several years.

As a reporter, Thomas waged a "one man war against tumbleweeds", helping to reduce the plant nuisance in Spring Valley.

Thomas held several jobs before coming to Spring Valley from La Mesa. He worked for the Navy as a driver, and was a butcher in a meat market for many years.

Thomas and his wife Sarah (Sadie) live in Spring Valley at 10707 Jamacha blvd. They will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary next week. Mrs. Thomas said that their three sons and their wives will be holding a celebration in honor of the event. They have 10 grandchildren.

For many Spring Valley citizens Tommy Thomas has been a familiar figure helping to record the growth of that community, and his retirement marks the end of a rewarding career.

Area Rotarians Host Brazil Visitors

Spring Valley and Lemon Grove Rotary Clubs are among those hosting a six-man study team from Brazil which arrived in San Diego, April 27th, for a one month stay.

The visit by the five young non-Rotarian business and professional men, selected by Rotary clubs in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, and their Rotary leader is under the auspices of the group study exchange program of the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International.

The visitors from Brazil will follow a study program designed to help them understand the economic, cultural, business, and professional life of this country, said Glenn E. Murdock, a member of the Rotary Club of La Mesa, who is in charge of arrangements.

The Rotary district has sent similar teams to and received teams from Australia, France, and southeast Asia in recent years.

"Such an exchange provides a person-to-person opportunity to foster better understanding and friendly relations among peoples of the world," Murdock said.

During their stay here, the young "ambassadors" will visit farms, factories, scientific institutions, hospitals, commercial and industrial firms, government establishments, colleges, schools and universities.

Outdoor Cooking, Nature Lore Slated for '74 Scout Fair

Visitors to this year's Scout Fair will eat ham and eggs fried on a rock, recycle paper, pan for gold, and sport faces painted like clowns. These are four of some 200 activities already registered for Scouting's spring spectacular scheduled for the Del Mar Fairground, Saturday.

According to Burt Armstrong, Activities Chairman for Grossmont District, about half of the Fair entries are now permitting the first general report of what this years' big day will be like. When the Fair opens, he said, more than 400 Scout units, including Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts will be involved.

More than 30,000 tickets have been sold so far by Scouts throughout the County, Armstrong said. Last year 60,000 visitors attended.

One of the most popular Fair activities will be outdoor cookery. There'll be sourdough flapjacks tossed over clothes-lines, eggs cooked in paper cups, bacon done in paper bags and entire meals prepared in fruit skins. There'll be stews, dehydrated foods, donuts, foil cooked meals, and food done on a rock. Samples will be available for all willing guests.

There'll be displays of hang gliders, canoes, scuba diving equipment, poisonous and edible wild plants, 15-man rafts and Indian villages. Model camps will be set up, fully equipped camp trailers shown, and wilderness bivuoacs built.

Cub, Scouting's younger members, will run bean bag throw arenas, fly kites, do silk screening, sail boats in raingutter raceways, and make heraldic shields as used by medieval knights. There will be a daylong series of Cub Pinewood Derby beats. In mid-afternoon winners among the handmade little cars will compete in the final "San Diego 500".

Letters to the Editor

Grossmont Tax Policy 'Explained'

Dear Editor:

I imagine that now that you have committed yourself so strongly in the Grossmont vs. Stull activity, it is too late to reassess and change your opinion. However, there are several points in your editorial which lead me to believe that you have heard only "the other side," and therefore may have a slightly prejudiced view of what has actually transpired. I would like to offer a few facts and statements.

First, the voters in 1968 did not approve an override of 28.5 cents. The voters approved in 1968 a tax rate of $2.98; this was an increase of $2.13 over the statutory tax rate which you referred to as the "legal limit." If SB 90 had not changed school finance, and if we had allowed our tax override to expire in 1974, the high school district tax rate would therefore have dropped to 85 cents, plus an additional 10 cents for Adult School.

Consistent with this, the trustees did not utilize "most of" the voted override tax for capital outlay. They used only 28.5 cents for this purpose. The district had prorated an increase of 30 cents per year out of the voted tax increase. Therefore, the 28.5 cents utilized in 1972 represented a tax rate which would not have been needed for operational purposes prior to 1974.

Originally $6 Million

The original $6 million bond issue was hopelessly inadequate for the projects outlined. Superintendent Austin Sellery was not the first to discover this fact; then-Superintendent Tom Warburton told the Governing Board in March of 1969, only five months after the bond election, that the funds would be inadequate to meet the needs of the projects and some alternate form of funding would have to be utilized.

The tax override from which the 28.5 cents was utilized, was approved by the voters after Dr. Sellery became superintendent. The approval came from the voters after Superintendent Warburton had announced publicly that the bond issue monies would be inadequate.

During the tax election campaign, Superintendent Sellery and members of the Board stated publicly and in the press that some of the voted override monies would have to be utilized to augment the 1967 bond monies.

Since trustees were hesitant to utilize general purpose tax revenues for such a major capital outlay project, they included the additional funding for Valhalla High School in the $19.5 million bond election in October 1971. The amount for Valhalla in that bond issue was not "$6 million." The amount to build Valhalla to its present capacity was $1,527,000. A second listing in that bond issue would increase the size of Valhalla to 2,500 students at an additional cost of $1 million. Therefore, the total amount for Valhalla High School at a capacity much larger than its present capacity was $2,527,000.

Says 3-2 is 2-3

You imply that the school has consistently been a 3-2 vote in favor of the administration. The implication you draw is that the three staunch supporters have railroaded through such things as the use of general purpose tax monies for capital outlay. However, you should note that the vote to utilize general purpose taxrate for capital outlay was 3-2 when it was initially proposed and that the two dissenting voters at that time are now two of the three voters who have supported the tax election.

You echo the cry that the supporters of the Stull Amendment make that this district is spending too much. I would point out that during the past year, this district spent $55 less per student than the statewide average of comparable districts. This does not seem to indicate extravagant spending.

During the period of "excessive" growth in question, the district has moved slowly from a position of spending over $100 less than the statewide average per student to its present position. Superintendent Tom Warburton told the public that we had to lower class sizes and improve program; he recommended the $1.50 increase in our tax rate over a five-year period.

The budget figure being used for comparison also includes $1.46 million of capital outlay for Valhalla. Certainly, many people feel that such a large amount of General Purpose monies should not be used for capital outlay. But, it is inaccurate and unfair to include this amount in our cost per student when making a study of the growth in our operating budget.

Claims Fallacies

We do not yet have a satisfactory answer to the apparent discrepancy between our budget growth and the increase in enrollment and inflation. We are studying the matter. However, there are several fallacies in the argument as presented. First, I do not believe the government figures on inflation are accurate. No one who has bought a loaf of bread or a gallon of gas will believe that inflation has averaged only 5 percent per year. We have seen paper increase 100 percent, gasoline increase 80 percent, and printink increase 410 percent in the past year. There are hundreds of examples. In addition, inflation figures cannot just be added together to get a cumulative figure. Inflation compounds, just as does interest. Five percent each year, for five years, would exceed a simple 25 percent increase.

One major fallacy in simply adding together the growth and inflation factors to get the allowable increase in budget is easy to point out. If the inflation since 1967 has been 32 percent, then that means that in 1973 it costs 32 percent more to educate each student than it would have cost in 1967. This 32 percent inflationary increase cannot be applied to the 1967 budget. Rather, it has to be applied to a budget which represents the number of students we have enrolled in 1973.

To Get 'True Figure'

Therefore, to get a true figure, you would have to take the 1967 budget and increase it by 27 percent in order to get whta thta budget would have been for today's enrollment. Then you would have to take that new larger figure and increase it by 32 percent to find out what the 1967 budget would cost in terms of today's dollar. As you can see, that figure would be much greater than the 59 percent increase which you imply should have been expected.

Finally, you must understand the effect of AB 1267 in order to understand how badly Senator Stull's Amendment has hurt this district. AB 1267 set as the revenue base for each school district the amount of money which would have been generated if they utilized their maximum voted tax rate. This was a significant change from the original SB 90 which used your 1972-73 budget to determine your revenue base. When AB 1267 gave the districts their voted tax ceiling, it also took away all permissive overrides which have been levied since the last tax election.

Higher Tax

The intent seems obvious: the purpose was to recreate the conditions which existed at the time of last election (by removing all non-voted tax levies instituted since that time), and then give the district the amount of money which the voters had approved within that context. In the case of the Grossmont District this maneuver subtracted about 20 cents from our maximum tax rate, virtually wiping out the remaining unused tax rate which the board had intended to levy in 1973-74.

You will recall that the district, in asking for voter approval of $1.50 increase in 1967, predicted that it would need to increase its budget by about 30 cents per year to meet growth and anflationary costs. This concept was approved by the voters. Due to the provision of AB 1267 the district had only 4 cents of tax rate available to it in 1973-74.

District Did Not Complain

The district has not complained about this, however, because it was the intent of the legislation to lower the property tax rate and to curb school spending. The district feels that this expresses the current will of the people and the district desires to live within these guidelines.

However, Senator John Stull's amendment subtracted an additional 28.5 cents from our revenue base. Although the amount is based on the amount which was utilized in 1972-73 to augment the Valhalla High construction fund, the subtraction has nothing to do with Valhalla High School. The 28.5 cents which we are losing is coming directly out of our operational budget. As mentioned previously, this represents approximately the 30 cents of tax rate which the voters have been told would be assessed for operations in the fifth year of the voted override. The voters approved this expenditure; John Stull has denied it.

28.5 Cents Bonanza

In summary, I believe that under the original provisions of SB 90, the district would have received a "bonanza" by being allowed to include the 28.5 cents of capital outlay money in their revenue base. By utilizing state formulas for building future budgets which were based on your 1972-73 operating budget, the district, therefore, would have been "fat."

However, under the revisions of AB 1267 the district is suffering a serious loss if it loses this 28.5 cents. Utilizing state formulas for building future budgets which are based on the presumption that the district has available its maximum voted tax rate, the district will receive far less than it needs to operate its program. The issue has nothing to do with Valhalla High School, with people's feelings towards that school, or with the actions of the trustees in regards to the construction of that school. The issue is very simply that the Grossmont District is starting from a drastically lower revenue base than the other 1,056 school districts in this state.

Charges Research Missing

I know you are not a man who plays "follow the leader." I know that you form your own opinions based on the facts. However, I do feel that it is significant that the newspapers which have covered this issue from the beginning, and those reporters who have been present to watch every innuendo and who have thoroughly researched the problem, are all solidly behind our district in its struggle for tax reform. I believe that this is because, although the arguments of the opposition are extremely convincing, the facts are on our side.

The opposition firmly believes three things: 1) That the district will be receiving "extra money" if they are allowed to retain the money which went for Valhalla construction; 2) that giving this "extra money" to the district for an indefinite period of time would violate the rights of the taxpayers who approved it for only a short period; and 3) the district doesn't need this money. The opposition is so set in this argument, which may possibly have been true under the original SB 90, that they are unable to perceive the current condition, even though they have been repeatedly presented with the facts.

'To Make It Clear'

I hope the facts I presented have raised sufficient questions to lead to further investigation. I hope I have made it clear that this is not "extra money" but rather is money which is being subtracted from our operational budget. I also hope it is clear that the method of school finance has changed. Voted tax overrides are no longer utilized to determine a school district's taxrate. For this reason it is inconsistent to argue that the district is not entitled to the 28.5 cents of tax rate because it was due to terminate in 1974, when, under the older system, the district's tax rate would have dropped to 85 cents in 1974. This new system is not unfair to the taxpayer, nor is it taxation without representation. The effects have been to greatly reduce the property tax rate; in our district alone, the tax rate dropped 71 cents last year due to this so-called "taxation without representation."

Ed's Note:

The writer's insistence that he made his points clear is not altogether valid. What he made clear is that he alleges the editor to be stubborn, stupid, misinformed and prejudiced.

Sandwiched between these allegations is an explanation of the District's financial problem.

Frankly, we don't understand the explanation.

Three others who read the communication claimed not to understand it either... but agreed to stubborn, stupid, etc regarding the editor.

Dear Editor:

As you are aware, the trial regarding the charges against me will be held and completed prior to the June primary. (Last week a trial ponstponement until after the June primary was granted. — ed.) This is something I requested. The people of California and I have the right to have this matter cleared up once and for all prior to election day.

Now, the people will go to the polls and vote for the man —and his position on the critical issues of the campaign.

If you have already determined to endorse my candidacy, I am more than pleased. If, on the other hand, you have already endorsed my opponent I am disappointed, but assure you that I will seek your endorsement in the general election after my primary victory.

If the pending trial has resulted in your publication not yet making an endorsement, I request that you wait until after the trial is concluded.

In the name of fairness I do request that you delay an endorsement of my opponent, if that endorsement will be primarily based on my current legal status.

As I said, this legal issue will be a dead issue before the election, so any editorial comments regarding its outcome on the election are premature. It also is an injustice to the voters of the Republican party, my candidacy, and the right of every individual to be presumed not guilty until a trial is completed.

Let me also thank you for the fairness of your news coverage in the past, and to your objective handling of this legal issue.

Phony Cancer Cure Endangers Victims

Laetrile, a so-called "miracle" drug for cancer is in the news this week. The Department of Health is issuing a warning to those people who go underground to obtain the drug. They may be fooled into relying on the drug and not obtaining proven medical care in time.

The controversial drug, prohibited by California law since 1963 from use in cancer treatment, has been involved in the prosecution of both physicians and laymen. Dr. Sherwood Lawrence, executive director of the State Department of Health's Advisory Council, credited his department, the American Cancer Society and local agencies for the actions.

"We are concerned," Lawrence explained, "because many cancer victims have been induced to seek treatment with Laetrile or other unproven remedies instead of conventional care. Often their cancers advance to the terminal stage before they try chemotherapy, radiation or surggery—treatment that has proven successful in treating many cancers."

Laetrile, also known as amygadlin or Vitamin B-17, was developed 25 years ago by a San Francisco biochemist, Lawrence said, as an extract from apricot pits. It has considerable "underground" use in the treatment of cancer, he added, because many cancer victims, told they are terminally ill, turn to Laetrille as a 'last resort.'

"Although we understand their anguish, exhaustive studies have shown that Laetrile has no value in the treatment of cancer," Lawrence said.

In addition to Laetrile, Lawrence also criticized other unorthodox treatment methods—various diet fads and so-called "black boxes" with special kinds of electrical wiring.

"Don't be misled," Lawrence warned cancer patients and their families. "Treatment for cancer should be administered only by a qualified physician. If there were any 'miracle' cures available, they would be in common use, and they would be public knowledge."

Eggs, Tomatoes Boost Farm Sales

San Diego County's agricultural industry produced a record $219,342,100 in 1973, an increase of 30.9% over the previous high in 1972.

The major factor in the increase was an improvement in egg prices, which almost doubled returns for this commodity. In 1972, eggs brought 25 cents a dozen; in 1973, the returns were 47 cents, leading to a total of $49.7 million for this commodity. However, costs of producing the eggs almost doubled, too. Egg producers did make some profit on their eggs in 1973, for only the second time in the last six years.

Tomatoes were the second most important commodity in 1973, reaching a figure of $29.5 million, and avocados were third at $28.6 million. Next to eggs, avocados showed the largest increase in value. The 1973 returns for this crop were 67% over the 1972 figure. Although the price per ton decreased from $1,012 to $670, the yield per acre increased from 1.5 to 3.5 tons.

Hafif Calls For Free Market Return

LA MESA—Consumer advocate and candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, Herb Hafif told the La Mesa Exchange Club Wednesday that a return to free enterprise in the market place, and not more regulatory agencies, is the answer to consumer problems.

"Government boards always end up being subservient to the interests they are supposed to regulate, but free competition represents the consumer," Hafif said. "The Browns and Morettis, having been raised on government control, only offer more of it.

"For too long we've seen the consumer movement get bogged down in concern over the myriad details of regulation, while the greater danger of monopoly power strangles consumer hopes," he said.

"Our first priority must be directed toward stopping the ever increasing trend of business concentration which now runs through insurance, the oil industry and banks through even our hamburger stands.

"The great American dream of individual business opportunity has vanished in a McDonald's franchise," Hafif said. "The average guy can't even open a hamburger stand today. Gone with his business opportunities are the consumer benefits of his former participation in our business life."

Hafif, a leading anti-trust lawyer, proposed breaking up large concentrations of business power in the oil, banking, insurance and agriculture industries rather than placing consumer hopes on more government regulation of them. He also attacked "state run" alternatives as being inefficient. "Ask Russia," he quipped.

Expo Premium Books Available Now for Fair

Premium books listing all details of competitions held by 11 departments of the Southern California Exposition, June 21-July 4 have now been mailed to some 9,000 previous exhibitors.

Others who wish to receive the books may obtain them by writing or calling the Expo's Entry Division, according to Rene Bohn, Entry Superintendent.

The Horse Show, Art Show and Photo Show each has its own premium brochure.

Most competitions are restricted to Southern California counties although some are county-wide, statewide or national and the Horse Show, Photo Show and Senior Livestock Show are international.

Entries for a new-this-year Junior Qualifying Horse Show on June 14-16 are due May 1, and for the regular Horse Horse Show on June 14-16 are due May 1, and for the regular Horse Show May 13. 4-H and Future Farmers of America applications must be in by May 15. Photo Show submissions deadline is May 20 and Art Show entries must be delivered on May 23, 24 or 25. Rabbit and Pigeon entries are due June 10 and 15 respectively.

Deadline for all other divisions is June 1, according to Mrs. Bohn.

You and Your Pet

What do you do if you find out that your husband-to-be plans on getting a dog to guard your new home, while you want to bring along your Siamese cat? Is it a terrible crises if your roommate wants her own kitten while you already have a cat?

Despite what some people say, two or more animals can peacefully coexist in the same household, if a little care is taken in bringing them together.

First, if you have the opportunity to choose the two pets, remember that young animals get acquainted quicker than older animals. Kittens and puppies are accustomed to having littermates around and will readily accept other young animals as playmates. Just take care that a large, frisky puppy doesn't overwhelm a small kitten with its size.

The match works best where the new addition is the younger of the two pets. A kitten or puppy will not be as much a threat to the healthy established pet, since it will not immediately seek the top position in the pecking order. An older cat may hiss and shy away from a puppy, but will not feel as threatened as by an older dog.

If you have to mix two older pets, do so gradually. True affection may never bloom, but your household should not be an armed camp, either.

First, keep the two in separate rooms, so that the scent of the new pet will announce its presence to the older pet. Maintain this situation for two or three days, until the older pet feels secure that "nothing has changed" by the addition of the new animal.

Next, let the two animals see each other, perhaps through a screen or gate. After several glimpses, your pets should tolerate one another, and will be ready to meet in the same room, with you standing by.

When you acquire the second pet, make sure that you pay special attention to the first. One of the primary reasons animals in the same household do not get along is jealousy. Don't make your old pet feel that he is now a second-class citizen. Continue to take him for his own walks, and pet him the same as before.

It's also a good idea for each pet to have its own supper bowl. Not only will you be able to insure that the new pet is eating well, but your old pet will maintain his sense of security. Probably after they have been together for a while, they will eat from each other's bowls, but it's not a good idea this soon.

If possible, let each pet have a private corner for a retreat. Nothing is more aggravating for a mature cat than to have a strange kitten or puppy constantly chasing and biting her tail or feet. She should have a spot where she can relax undisturbed. This will also help maintain your pet's sense of security.

One final step that should not be overlooked is a visit to the veterinarian for your new pet. Even if your first pet is vaccinated against the more serious diseases, it could still pick up a variety of skin infections or intestinal worms from a new animal that has not bee cared for properly.

Hitt and Bullen Battle For Cajon Track Lead

Three invaders from other Southland tracks have served notice that they may need to be reckoned with in super stock car action Saturday night at Cajon Speedway's swift oval.

Pomonans Bill Osborne and Bill Spencer and Chuck Becker Jr. of San Bernardino have stirred up the local ranks a bit with high finishes and record-setting achievements.

They'll be on the line with some 60 drivers who will be making qualifying bids at 6:30 p.m. A four lap trophy dash opens the program at 8, followed by four eight lap heats, a 10 lap consolation, 15 lap semi-main and the 20 car, 30 lap feature.

On the opening program, Osborne finished third in the main behind winner Jim Hitt of Lemon Grove and obviously his $269 check alerted Spencer and Becker that there was more to the south than just good weather.

Becker won the trophy dash last week in record time and finished second in the heat. Meanwhile, Spencer led the main for seven laps and finished third in the feature behind Russ Bullen.

The story on the second week was more records and the duel again between Bullen and Hitt.

Hitt's second place finish to Bullen kept the 1971 El Cajon Stock Car Racing Association's king in front for 1974. He has accumulated 330 points to Bullen's 303.

Mark Stahl of Chula Vista is in third spot with 241, followed by Gary Crossland of Lakeside with 221, Ron Overman of El Cajon with 160 and young Larry Aufdengarten of San Diego with 157.

Although McIntyre has sat in the trophy dash both nights, his entanglements either in the heats or mains have dropped him out of early contention in his bid to win an unprecedented third straight title.

Derby Atmosphere Readied For Rebuilt Caliente Opening

TIJUANA — Kentucky's famed Churchill Downs atmosphere will prevail Saturday when thoroughbred racing resumes at the new Agua Caliente racetrack in Tijuana.

First day fans will enter the track through a facade depicting the famed spires at the Louisville track, and three races will have Kentucky Derby-type names.

Fans will also watch the 100th presentation of the "Run for the Roses" on closed circuit television. Wagering, at Churchill Downs odds, is planned at special windows at the track.

Caliente's 8th, 9th and 10th races Saturday have been designated "The Kentucky Colonel", "The Kentucky Derby Centennial" and "The Mint Julep" consecutively.

The feature race on opening day will be the Agua Caliente Express Handicap, a $20,000 handicap for 3-year-olds and up over a distance of six furlongs.

The track will operate two days a week until all construction is completed after which a 3-day-a-week schedule is planned.

Freitas vs. Penrose In Red-Black Game Sat.

Jesse Freitas and Craig Penrose will open at quarterback Saturday when the San Diego State U. Alumni meets the varsity in the annual Red-Black football game at 7:30 p.m. in Aztec Bowl.

Freitas, last year's NCAA passing champion and an All-American, heads an impressive list of Alumni which numbers nine current National Football League players, two ex-NFL players and 12 players currently under contract or committed to World Football League teams.

The NFL players include Freitas (San Diego Chargers), Dennis Shaw (St. Louis Cardinals), Darold Nogle (Chargers), Jeff Baker (Denver Broncos), Marv Owens, (Cards), Willie Buchanon (Green Bay Packers), Don Shy (Chicago Bears), Tuffy Avii (Chargers) and Martin Imhof (Washington Redskins. The ex-NFL players are Billie Hayes (New Orleans Saints) and Dave Ogas (Buffalo Bills).

World Football League players include Bobby Klatt (Philadelphia Bell), Tom Nettles (Honolulu Hawaiians), Greg Moses (Southern California Sun), Tim Boyer (Hawaiians), Bill Hammett (Portland Storm), Garland Chandler (Bell), Bill Van Leeuwen (Hawaiians), Mike Pompa (Storm), Jerry Myatt (Sun), Herbie Dobbins (Hawaiians), Jonas Jackson (Hawaiians), and Tim Delaney (Sun).

Penrose has earned the starting quarterback job for the varsity with impressive showings throughout the spring. The Aztec starting backfield should include Penrose, Frank Geary and Dave Darden or Bill Kramer with Nate Fergerson, Mel Jacobs and Dwight McDonald at the receivers and either Brad Stewart or Vollon Dixon at tight end.

"So far things have gone pretty well," said Aztec head coach Claude Gilbert. "We all look forward to the Red-Black game because it gives us a chance to evaluate our players under game conditions and also gives us a chance to see a lot of Alumni guys."

The Aztecs will workout from 3 to 5 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in Aztec Bowl in preparation for the game.

Tickets are priced at $2 for adults, 50 cents for students and are available at the Aztec Center Ticket Office on the San Diego State campus or at the ticket windows on Saturday night.

For the first time KFMB Radio (760) will broadcast the kame with Mike Wolfe calling the play-by-play.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

This probably could come under the heading of Sports of other sorts, but in this day and age everybody's getting into the act anyway so a few Playgirl Bunnies hardly seem out of place on the Sports Beat.

This is not just a bunny tale, however. It has to do with Boy Scouts. It seems the little guys are doing things better than us older lads did when we were rubbing things together to get a fire going.

In fact things are getting so good with one troop down Georgia way that they have an over supply of fathers, big brothers, uncles, neighbors and other male types batling each other rippin' off all the adult scouting jobs ,some of which don't even exist.

And it all came about because of one patrol. They wanted a name change. A time honored tag like the "Beaver Patrol" just wasn't good enough for a bunch of new thinking scouters down in Smyrna, Ga.

"Nothing doing," they said to such labels. And the same went for Linx, Wolf and Fox. That's not what they have in mind.

"We're here to play around,' reports one of the "now generation" scouters. "So why not let us be the Playboy Patrol."

Shades of Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell. Comments like that undoubtedly have the old gentleman founder of the scout movement spinning in his grave with astronomical rotations. Can't you hear him now?

"Humph," he would say, "Playboy Patrol, indeed. Get out there and play with your sticks and things and leave that for when you're older."

In his day Lord Baden-Powell would have probably taken care of those bunnies himself.

And that brings us to the good citizens of Smyrna, a town that lends its charm and grace to greater Atlanta. Folks down there tend to allow their youngin's to do their own thing, mostly. Especially if it don't harm nobody. Soo, the dads and moms went along with the Playboy Patrol idea.

That is, they did until Playboy magnate Hugh M. Hefner got into the act. A guy who has been known to do a little scouting on his own, Hefner applauded the idea and offered his support and other considerations.

That's where the moms of Smyrna withdrew support, fell back and regrouped. Their loss was more than made up, however, in the sheer numbers of offers from husbands, fathers, big brothers, et al.

Hefner, of course, was in his element. He searched his bunny hutches for cottontails who were also good scouts. These lovely packages of pulchritude will assist the scouts in such things as sewing on their Playboy Patrol shoulder patches and other things that must be done around the campfire.

There was a report that many of the scout's male volunteers offered to give of themselves, as it were, helping the bunnies with their domestic chores, but another report says an equal number of scouting mothers voted unanimously against that idea.

In any event, Hefner and his hutch bunch hopped all the way down to Smyrna where they will make the Playboy Patrol presentations sometime today. The boys are also to be "unofficially" adopted by the bunnies.

In addition, all 47 candidates for scoutmaster are reported making plans for the Playboy Patrol's first over-night campout. General plans call for boys, dads and bunnies to gather at the fireside. There is also general agreement among the candidates that taps will blow for the boys at an early hour. A decision on the matter is expected any minute from the moms.

Be that as it may, the scout bit is just the beginning. Word comes that several college fraternities, the North Platte "Past 50" Men's Bowling League, the Hilo Hawaii Surf Club, the Independent Golf and MINI Tour Players Association and the crew of the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Constitution have all asked to be declared "Playboys" and be adopted by Hefner's horde of hoppers.

As a matter of fact, as soon as this report clears the roller, a memo of similar substance in behalf of sports types will come into being.

Think of the waste of time. Most scouting memories are limited to knot tieing, hiking, stick rubbing, camping, cookouts and being alone for the first time in the Great North Woods. Search as you can, very few thoughts ever come through of girls, much less a whole clutch of Hefner's Bunnies.

You'll have to admit scouting today is a lot more fun than it used to be. Yes Sir, overnight camping is coming back. Now if some of those bunnies will just be good scouts . . .

Small, Efficient Farm System Is Boast of San Diego Padres

There seems to be growing talk about the death of minor leagues. Too expensive, not enough gained by the ventures and so on. But you won't find the people within organized baseball singing these words.

Far from it.

In their first five years of existence, the Padres have slowly been building up a farm system which today is beginning to bear real fruits for the labor.

"The purpose of any minor league farm system is twofold," related Mike Port, the Padres Director of Minor League Operations.

"The first and primary purpose is to develop ballplayers for the major league ball clubs. The minor leagues are the proving grounds for the vast majority of the players. It's rare for a player to come right off the high school or college campus and step right into the majors. They need to gain experience first.

"Then, secondly," Port said, "the system brings along players who can help you develop a pool of talent from which you can draw for trades or to use to generally improve your farm as a whole."

Smallest System

The Padres feature the smallest farm system in the majors with just three clubs, but over the past few years they have been highly successful.

Last year, for instance, the Walla Walla club in the class A Northwest League won the loop championship.

The Padres also have Hawaii in the Pacific Coast League (Class AAA) and Alexandria in the Class AA Texas League.

"Our system is really coming of age, says Port. "We have the smallest operation in the majors, but yet it contains a high degree of quality, maybe more so than most systems.

"For example, a lot of ball clubs literally bring in over a hundred players to their spring camps and begin a lengthy weeding out process. We start with around 65 and pretty much stick to that figure.

"Right now we've got several players in our system who will be playing for the Padres in San Diego soon. That is what really counts in the long run, the number of prospects to make the major league club from your minor league system.

"You can have the largest organization in baseball," summed up Port, "but if the farm clubs aren't producing major league caliber ballplayers then a lot of the time and money has been wasted."

Good Examples

The best example would be centerfielder John Grubb who hit .311 last season, was named the Padres Rookie of the Year and was in the running for the National League Rookie of the Year award.

Grubb started out with Lodi of the California League in 1971, moved up to Alexandria for most of the 1972 campaign and then made the major league club for keeps at the end of that same season. He responded that year by hitting .333 (7 for 21) in his short stint and has been a fixture since. He is batting just under .350 now.

Padre pitchers Dave Freisleben and Larry Hardy are also examples.

Both are among the first Padres to work their way through the entire minor league system.

Freisleben started out with Tri-City of the Class A Northwest League in 1971, spent 1972 in Class AA ball with Alexandria and then completed his tutoring last season with Hawaii in the Class AAA Pacific Coast League.

Hardy is much the same story. He toiled at Tri-City and Lodi for two season of Class A ball then followed the upward trail with Freisleben through Alexandria and Hawaii.

"These are three fine examples of what we have been able to accomplish with our minor league system," said Port. "We still need to add a little more to our farm operation, but we have reached the stage where we can readily point to the benefits of having a good, sound farm system."

HOME AWAY All Times Pacific Time

Irish Art Hafey Heads Coliseum Card Friday

Art Hafey's back and the Coliseum's got him.

The popular Irish featherweight who thinks he's a heavyweight—and fights like one—is matched to meet Ricardo Garcia.

Hafey, who lives in Pacific Beach, is usually responsible for filling Mickey Davies' Punch Palace when he's scheduled, and this fight should be no exception.

Friday night Oscar "Shotgun" Albarado won a unanimous decision over welterweight Eddie Mazon. Albarado's left hooks and jabs dominated the fight in all 10 rounds except one. And even that was close.

Mazon bled from the nose throughout and his left brow was bleeding when the fight ended. Albarado had a cut on the bridge of his nose when he entered the ring and Mazon targeted on that throughout the fight.

Albarado is said to be scheduled to fight Japan's Koichi Wajima for the junior middleweight title in his next outing.

If Albarado brings the title back to the U.S. he'll have to be sharper than he was Friday.

Two junior lightweights who fought a 3-round draw the week before and were so popular that fans littered the ring with money, were rematched last week in a 6-rounder. The battlers, Tommy Nava and Danny Tapia, both of San Diego, produced a replay and the crowd of about 1,500 again showered coins onto the canvas after another draw was judged. Tapia seemed off-target until the third round then dominated the fight.

A 5-round welterweight fray was bobtailed when Derold Garbutt of Long Beach told referee Bobby Valdez he'd had enough of Tony Gonzales after 1:12 of the 4th round. Gonzales in his first professional fight appeared able to hit Garbutt at will. Garbutt maintained his perfect record—3 fights, 3 losses.

Triple-header Set For South Bay Oval

The South Bay Park Speedway in Chula Vista steps up its racing schedule this weekend when the first of 14 racing programs inked for the month of May, gets under way Friday at 8:30 p.m. with the debut of dirt track Figure 8 Stock Car racing in the San Diego area.

Racing director Don Basile has slated at tripleheader racing card for Friday night, featuring the MARA Figure 8 Stock Cars, Mini Stock Cars and a Destruction Derby.

It will be the first time that Figure 8 Stock Car races have ever been staged in the San Diego area on a dirt track. The broadsliding of a dirt track, plus the high-speed criss-cross action at the intersection draws crows from 4-6000 every Sunday night at Los Angeles Ascot Park.

While the Figure 8's will take place on the new criss-cross course, the Mini Stocks will race on a new ¼ mile dirt track. Former champion Jorge Holland of National City and Jergen Jacobs of San Diego will head a field of 25 American and foreign compact stock cars.

Saturday night the action switches to the fast ½ mile clay oval, where the AMA professional motorcycle flat-track races will be held starting at 8 p.m. Over 100 of the nation's top riders will compete in the 18-event card.

Bullfights Season Reopens Sat.

The bullfight season starts Sunday, with a deluxe cartel in the 14,000-seat downtown arena, El Toreo de Tijuana, at 4 p.m.

Matadors will be Eloy Cavazos, Curro Rivera, and Jorge Blando, facing six bulls of the famed ranch, San Miguel de Mimiahuapam.

The presence of Cavazos and Rivera—two of bullfighting's biggest and most popular stars—plus the fact that the date coincides with Mexico's Cinco de Mayo holiday weekend assures a large crowd.

Cavazos, 23, of Monterrey, was one of the fiesta brava's busiest matadors last year, fighting 67 times in Mexico and 20 times in South America.

Twice recently he has had animals so grand that their lives were spared.

Rivera, 22, of Mexico City, won a tail twice last year at Tijuana. Last month, at Morelia, Mexico, he cut four ears and a tail. He had 57 corridas in Mexico last year.

Blando, 23, of Guadalajara, won a turn around the arena last year for elegant cape work with both hands and outstanding passes. He was uninjured in a tossing.

The next formal corrida will be May 26, also downtown.

Tickets are available at the U. S. Grant Travel Agency, Metro-Ticketron agencies and in Tijuana at Caesar's hotel lobby.

The attention of bidders is particularly directed to the provisions of Sections 8-1.01 and 8-1.02 of the Specifications regarding subcontracting and assignment of the contract, respectively.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and the right to waive irregularities or informalities in any bonds or in the bidding.

Gas Crusader Wins State Race Support

More than 40 legislators throughout California have endorsed Assemblyman Ken Cory (D-Orange County) for the Democratic nomination for state controller.

He is serving his fourth consecutive term in the Assembly. In 1970, they elected him Democratic caucus chairman, one of the Legislature's top leadership posts.

Cory has concerned himself with a wide variety of issues including consumer protection, tax reform, the environment, governmental economy, civil liberties, drug abuse prevention and education.

Most recently he has gained national recognition for his five-year investigation of questionable price-fixing practices by major oil companies in California. The Legislature's Joint Committee on Public Domain, chaired by Cory since 1968, has uncovered strong evidence that oil companies have been short-changing California taxpayers by more than $50 million a year on the purchase of crude oil from state-owned tidelands.

Investigation in Progress

The committee is in the process of investigating thousands of documents which have been turned over to them by the major oil companies in compliance with a court order. This is the first time any governmental agency has had access to this data on oil company costs and profits.

On the basis of the committee findings, Cory has already introduced legislation to create common carrier pipelines in California to curtail monopolization of the crude oil transportation system by the major oil companies.

He is also working on additional legislation to eleminate other monopolistic practices in the oil industry which result in price-fixing by major oil companies to the detriment of the citizens of the state and which force small, independent producers, refiners and dealers out of business.

After a year of specialized training, a farm tractor accident cost her her right arm.

Joyce attributes her return to productive life to the rehabilitation services given to her at Goodwill, where she completed the regular training program. Her enthusiasm, integrity, cheerfulness and natural love for people make her appointment as a permanent recruiter for Goodwill a rewarding experience.

Joyce is only one example of the many people Goodwill Industries helps each year by offering a full range of services to an individual. Testing, evaluation, counseling, training, work experience, and job placement are but a few of these services. Goodwill gives employment to many who may never reach a level of proficiency necessary to work in private industry.

Programs will be repeated hourly, on the hour, in seven courtrooms on the second floor of the Courthouse.

World Hockey Wins Long Lease At Sports Arena

World Hockey Association, in San Diego Tuesday by way of a transfer of franchise.

The announcement was made by Dennis Murphy, president of WHL and Joe Schwartz, the team's owner.

Schwartz said that he has a 10 year contract with Peter Graham, owner of the San Diego Sports Arena where the team will play. "It's a firm 5 years with a 5 year option. Peter calls it a 10 year lease," Schwartz said. He said his lease was for "major league" hockey.

The team is to be named by the fans, Schwartz said. He didn't seem disturbed when he was told that the fans named a local basketball team "The Conquistadors."

Graham said his function in the operation is that of a landlord.

The transfer of the Jersey Knights to San Diego surprised Bob Breitbard, owner of the Western Hockey League Gulls, long a favorite in San Diego.

Breitbard, in a prepared statement said the announcement by Peter Graham of his granting an arena lease came as a shock. "As late as Monday of last week (April 22) Jim Cullen (Secretary and General Counsel of the National Hockey League) was in San Diego, and negotiated with Mr. Graham and his attorney for a long-term lease to the Gulls and the expansion franchise which was to be granted to San Diego by the National Hockey League.

"At that time, Mr. Graham and I shook hands, and we expressed our mutual pleasure over what we had finally accomplished.

"I have been given every indiction by Mr. Campbell (President of the National Hockey League), and by other members of the National Hockey League, that the approval of an NHL franchise for San Diego would be forthcoming at the NHL's June, 1974 meeting —for the 1976-1977 season. Peter Graham was well aware of this.

"Our application was made last February at the NHL meetings at the Plaza Hotel in New York City. At that time, Mr. Graham himself participated in making the presentation, by giving the NHL Board of Governor his assurances that the arena facilities would be available to the Gulls and to the NHL.

"Mr. Graham's current change in position is sudden and unexpected. Obviously, I am disappointed, and must talk with my attorneys to ascertain the appropriate course of action."
